LIBERTY CAMP HOUSES FIRED ON LAST NIGHT

Soldiers at Straight Creek Return Shots of Miners

ORDER CAVALRY

Management Determined to Operate
Mines Despite Opposition of the Union
Miners

Apparently not satisfied with ambush and firing on state soldiers from cover, unknown persons who are trying to prevent further operation of the Liberty Coal and Coke company mines fired on dwellings there last night.

After 10 o'clock last night a number of shots were fired into the home of G. C. Clark, superintendent of the mines, and into the dwelling of Mr. Dicklesimer, store manager. In these houses were women and children, a fact known to the beligerent agitators, but all miraculously escaped injury.

Soldiers were fired on at their dressing rooms and at the guard rooms though none of them were hit. The foes, under cover of darkness, were able to sneak up to within a comparatively short distance of the soldiers' homes before they began firing. To all of the volleys of the attackers the troops replied with their rifles and their Browning automatics. So far as is known, none of the besiegers were hurt.

Among the troops are some Barboursville boys who have been in the service only a short time. These bravely stand their ground and fight like real veterans, according to mine officials who are pleased with the splendid work performed by the state guard.

General Keoh, West Point man and veteran of the World War, is at the scene of the trouble today. The men have established posts and outposts and do picket duty much the same as is done in warfare. The enemy remains hidden during the day but, knowing the ground, it is possible for them to break through the lines at night and fire on the soldiers and the orderly citizens of the camp.

Max Baker, vice president and general manager of the Liberty Coal and Coke company, stated this afternoon that reinforcements were expected to arrive there today. According to reports, a troop of cavalry has been dispatched to the scene of trouble. The management is determined to operate the mines, even in the face of organized opposition, and employees and property will be protected by the state. More men are coming in to work daily now and the force will soon be sufficient to operate at full production, he stated.

The management reports that efforts were made to dynamite the tipples of the mine Sunday night but the blowers were chased away under fire before the explosives could be placed. There were about ten men detailed for the destructive work, according to reports, and a few shots were fired at the soldiers when the latter chased them away.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Apr. 8.—Governor Fields today ordered cavalry troop A stationed here to Straight Creek to reinforce state troops already there guarding the property of Liberty Coal and Coke company where mines are being operated on a non-union basis. The decision to send the cavalry was made upon report of Adjutant General Kehoe that miners and guardsmen exchanged snarled rifle fire last night. No casualties were reported.

COVINGTON, Apr. 8.—One witness before the federal grand jury which indicted Congressman John W. Langley of Kentucky, and five others here late yesterday in connection with the alleged illegal withdrawal of whiskey was Elias H. Mortimer of New York City whose testimony also figured in the indictment three weeks ago against Langley in Washington. The indictment here charges Langley conspired with attaches of the prohibition directors' office at Philadelphia and at Canton, Ohio, to defraud the government of approximately $17,000 in withdrawals of fourteen hundred cases of whiskey from a distillery near Lawrenceburg, Kentucky. It was destined for non-existent drug firm in Philadelphia.

LIBRARY GET 4 MORE BOOKS

ON INTERNATIONAL PEACE

Four more volumes on subjects of international interest have been added to the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace collection at the Carnegie library. The new books are: "History of the French People," Batut and Friedman; "Russia and Peace," Nansen; "My Diplomatic Education," Richardson; "Spring in Morocco and Algiers," Wickersham. The library now has a fine collection of the books from the organization which now only seeks to propagate world peace but also to educate Americans in the history, customs and special phases of life abroad and to give them the latest and most authoritative books on current diplomatic affairs in other parts of the world.

The books are gaining in popularity as patrons begin more and more to depend on them for education in matters of world interest.

Another substantial contribution to the local library is a well bound three volume set of "The History of Kentucky" by E. Polk Johnson. The work which formed a part of the library of the late Rev. S. Owsley was donated by his son, Cecil Owsley.

REVIVALIST TALKS ON REAL VALUES

"Profit and Loss" Is Subject for the Baptist Evangelist Last Night

"For what is a man profited if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul? Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?" This was the text of Dr. E. C. Stephen's sermon on "Profit and Loss" at the Baptist church last night.

"Profit and loss has a great place in our every day life, and the man who can properly value this and act wisely in the fact of time is the one who comes off victor. Profit and loss is the greatest, the most vital thing in a man's life," he explained.

"Our text embraces two questions: What shall it profit a man if he lose his soul? Since man has lost his life through sin how can he get it again?"

To estimate this properly we must estimate the value of the world. If a man is going to lose his soul what is he going to get for it?

"Man cannot obtain the world in full. This is impossible and there is no use saying that you can, but what will it profit to lose your soul in getting all of the world you can. Caesar, Napoleon and the Kaiser are men who came the nearest to getting the whole world, that is they got more of it than any other and what they gained was very little.

"The world has a value—those who deny it have something wrong with them. The world's value may be summed up as four-fold. Wealth, fame, pleasure, power. And these are enticing offers, but one thing I would have you remember: The world's offers are only for time or for as long as life is in the body. They cannot be carried on after death. The world has no offer to make when the heart ceases to beat.

"Then we must estimate the value of the soul. The soul is immortal. Death has no power over it. Not only is it immortal, but it has increasing intellect, increasing sensibility, growing knowledge and increasing joy. What does God estimate the soul at? Can you not see Christ leaving his heavenly home to come here and die on the cross for sinners? One soul is worth to God the price of the death of his son on the cross.

"To lose one's soul is to lose Christ, heaven, and heavenly joys forever. It means to lose all rest and peace throughout eternity. It means to lose hope. To lose the world itself. There are two things a man can do to lose his soul: to neglect Christ, to let the devil deceive you about your salvation. Since man has lost his life how can he get it back. Jesus must pay the sin debt before man can be brought back."

"Repentance" will be the subject of the sermon at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

ANNUAL CLEAN UP CAMPAIGN NOW ON HERE

Prisoners Remove Dirt from Streets Then Haul Off

FLUSHER FOLLOWS

City Carries Away Rubbish From All Over City—Woman's Club
Directs Work, Asks All to Take Part

Annual clean-up of Middlesboro has started and will continue throughout the week. J. D. Haddix, with the city prisoners, is in charge of cleaning the streets. Rubbish and mud is being shoveled up from the business streets and hauled off.

Property owners are requested by the street cleaning department to collect all their trash into piles and to notify R. M. Knipp, Cumberland phone 56, at the city hall. He will send a wagon to haul off the rubbish. All this is being done at the expense of the city this week and those who fail to take advantage of the free service will have to do it at their own expense later.

The work will be facilitated later in the week by the city Reo truck which will be available for the work when the city fire engine truck is returned from Knoxville where necessary repairs are now being made. The city is assured that the work of overhauling will be completed within two or three days.

The clean-up campaign this year is coincident with the "Buy in Middlesboro" week campaign. The Middlesboro Woman's club is sponsoring the movement and its executives are co-operating with the city and the property owners in the work. Mrs. D. G. Hink, its president, requests all citizens of Middlesboro to co-operate in the work to the end that Middlesboro may be a cleaner and better place in which to live.

The work was so thoroughly done during the annual clean-up campaign last spring that the task is not so arduous this year, the commissioner of streets says, though with the same number of days spent in the work it should be done even more thoroughly and its effect be more far reaching this year.

EXCAVATION WORK ON PETERSBORO AVE.

Concrete for Base Paved Stone—Gut

Excavation work is being done at Petersboro avenue now along with that of making curbs and gutters for the street. When the grading is entirely done the concrete for the base will be poured, according to construction company men.

Present plans are to move the steam shovel and other grading machinery to the block on Cumberland and Fitzpatrick avenue and to do this part of the work after that on Petersboro is entirely finished. The Cumberland avenue block under the railroad tracks will be made entirely of concrete, this type of the place where water accumulates during rainy weather. The surface of Petersboro avenue will be made of asphalt.

DEATH PENALTY TO LYNCH NEGRO

Speedy Trial of Leonard Griffin Convicted of Murder of Chief Gross

HARLAN, April 8.—Leonard Griffin, slayer of Capt. J. A. Gross, Lynch chief of police, was found guilty of first degree murder here last night and was sentenced to die. The jury which heard the case was chosen only after two venires were exhausted. One woman sat on it. The verdict was returned at 9 p. m., after only twenty minutes deliberation. This is the first death sentence given here in thirty years.

The evidence was completed at 6 o'clock last evening. Arguments were begun at 7 o'clock. A plea of self defense was made by the attorney for the negro.

After deliberating 20 minutes the jury brought in a verdict of guilty, which was applauded by the crowd which filled the room to the limit. Capt. Gross, the victim of the negro, was very popular in Harlan county and had served overseas. At the time he was slain he was searching for Ernest Huff, a negro, charged with looting a house earlier in the evening. The negro wanted got in the rear of the car used by the officers and Capt. Gross and his brother started around the auto. A shot from a yard nearly struck Capt. Gross in the body and a second shot hit him in the breast as he turned towards his assailant. The brother of Capt. Gross gave chase, but lost the trail. Griffin was arrested the following morning by the chief of police at Harlan, Va., and returned to Harlan.

Many Handsome Win- dows and Special Bargains

PROGRAM TODAY

Middlesboro Men to Speak On "Cooperation" and Buying Here at Manning This Afternoon

With the attractive decoration of city store windows, with new and reasonable merchandise and special displays of Middlesboro products by wholesalers in Cumberland avenue shops, the "Buy in Middlesboro" week campaign started with a boom this morning. The meeting at the Manning theatre which began at 3 o'clock this afternoon was intended to get the people here in the proper frame of mind to lend their co-operation in making the drive a success.

Mammoth posters emphasizing the importance of buying in Middlesboro have been printed and placed in windows of stores belonging to the Middlesboro Merchants' association. Any one reading these could not conscientiously turn to the mail order catalogue for their needs or visit a distant town to do their shopping.

The argument printed on the placards tells within a few words the urgent importance of patronizing local establishments. The card, which bears a large-type caption, "Buy in Middlesboro," reads: "Help us: Carry a bigger assortment of merchandise, lower our selling cost, keep part of every dollar at home and make a bigger and better Middlesboro. We help: pay taxes, make the Community Chest possible, build streets and maintain our excellent school system."

Among the splendid window decorations that of the Evans-Raney Motor Sale company deserves special mention. The window is trimmed in green with vases of jonquills in the center and palms on either side. In the background is a Chevrolet coupe equipped with balloon tires.

Shelburne's emphasizes the importance of buying in Middlesboro by a display of Cumberland chocolates and other confectionery products distributed by the Italian company. The Loreit Fruit and Produce company will have a fruit display in the windows of the White Star confectionery and a display of chicken feet in the Heams Hardware company window. Armour & Co., the Chero-Cola company and others will have displays at other places, according to present plans. All members of the association have special window decorations and, where possible, demonstrations. Practically all of them are offering special bargains in certain lines for the benefit of Middlesboro people and hundreds of out-of-town shoppers expected here during the week.

This being "Clean-up" paint up" week as well as that devoted to the buying campaign, some of the stores have recently had their fronts painted. A. D. Campbell and Bro. store and the Wise Specialty shop have been repainted in white during the past few days.

An imposing array of local speakers were selected to urge the public to patronize home industries at the Manning theatre this afternoon. R. M. Stearns, president of the Merchants' association, stated that a comedy film would be exhibited through the courtesy of the Brown Amusement company.

The Middlesboro Woman's club has assisted in working up a large crowd, particularly of local women, to attend the public speaking. Members of the association were requested to have individual programs prepared so that they could be announced by the speakers at the meeting.

The program announced this morning by the president of the association, follows:
"Buy in Middlesboro" and "Co-operation," T. Russ Hill.
"Co-operation With the City," Commissioner Charles E. Conner.
"Co-operating with Insurance Companies and Keeping Premiums Local," John H. Chesney.
"Making Middlesboro a Better Place in Which to Live," Judge T. C. L. L.

BUSINESS STRUCTURE CONTINUES SOUND

To get an unclouded view of the business situation these days it is necessary to distinguish fact and fancy; otherwise one is likely to let imagination get the better of common sense.

Considered from a sentimental angle there is probably less confidence in the forward movement of the industry than there was a month ago. Viewed from a rational standpoint, however, and accepting as trustworthy guides those factors which are not susceptible to external disturbances, the indexes of dependable business such as record car loadings, capacity production of iron and steel, plenty of work at good wages, the high consuming power of the country, an almost complete absence of speculative tendencies, and sound financial conditions, justify confidence in the future.

Careful observation of both sides of the situation has led to the general adoption of a middle-of-the-road course, which, in addition to being safe, makes it easier to steer clear of the rough places.

So far we can see no sufficient reason to revise the statement we have frequently made in the past; namely that the business structure continues sound. Desiring to repeat this and at the same time not wishing to depend upon our judgment alone in the matter, we made a careful check of the opinions of representative business men in the Fourth District in the following manner:

1—We assumed that each business head, judging by the trend of his business in 1923, and by returns shown on the financial statement for the year, formed an estimate several months ago as to where and how he would stand in March, 1924.

2—We asked each of these men if anything of sufficient importance to make them change their original estimate had actually happened.

3—The replies we received showed clearly that business now, with few exceptions, is just about the place its leaders thought it would be.

Frankly, we can think of no fairer test.—Monthly Business Review.

LESS CRUELTY IN WORLD TODAY

A century ago there were almost 100 offenses punishable by hanging. Insane persons were chained and beaten. The world has grown better. Our generation is less viciously cruel than the people of long ago. Cruelty decreases as civilization advances.

The fight against cruelty to unfortunate human beings has been going on for thousands of years. It's far from won. But we no longer throw slaves and prisoners to the lions.

The campaign against cruelty to animals did not get under way in an organized form until about the time human slavery was abolished here in America. The American Society for the Prevention of Cruel-

TUESDAY

The Eternal Spirit

Read Mt. 13:31-34. Text: 13:33. The Kingdom of Heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three measures of meal, till it was all leavened.

"The significant thing is that the religious experience of Jesus was being continued within the precincts of his human relationships. This was being accomplished not simply through the remembrance of his career in Galilee, a little later perpetuated in historical Gospel records, but through his continued personal contact with human life."

Meditation: As Jesus was able to communicate to his disciples the nature of his divine life so that they too became partakers of God's grace and joint heirs with Him of God's promises of immortality, so has His Spirit during the years led countless spirit ever allures the souls of men to enter the daily practice of immortality.

Personal Question: Does the restlessness and dissatisfaction of the present help me to a better future? Prayer: Almighty God, may we be like-minded with Christ, that we may with confidence seek to do thy will. Let us take our daily duties in the spirit of love, that we may learn of thee. May our eyes be turned towards thee and our quest be for the eternal, in Christ's name. Amen.

ty to Animals was founded in April, 1895.

Cruelty to animals used to be mainly in beating horses, abusing dogs, keeping cattle half-starved. That sort of fierceness is not altogether extinguished by any means. But it has been curbed. Average intelligence has advanced, and owners realize that there is a selfish reason why they should treat horses and livestock with great care. Dogs and cats usually are well treated by their owners. A cowardly stranger occasionally vents his viciousness on them—too cowardly to tackle a man with power to retaliate.

This week the American people are asked to renew their determination to compel less cruelty to dumb brutes. Kindness to animals should be taught in all schools, as it already is in 23 states, by law.

The last strongholds of cruelty to animals are hunting for pleasure, shooting birds for feathers, and collecting furs by the use of steel traps. But let's not forget to be kind in our treatment of all forms of animal life. Cruelty to animals is, after all, the most extreme form of cowardice.

MIDDLESBORO TO HAVE STATE GOLF TOURNEY

Those who are inclined to feel discouraged with Middlesboro and its prospects may get some satisfaction in the thought that we have the second best golf course in the entire state. This makes the town a Mecca for golfers from all over the state and country, particularly in such events as the state tournament which will be held here this year.

The term "golfers" means more than a man who knocks the ball from one tee to another; it implies that the person is a business man who, generally speaking, has made a success in life and can afford time for the sport that offers the greatest relaxation. It would be impossible to get together 200 men from the state of higher business and professional capabilities than those which the state tournament will bring.

No argument as to the advantages which may result from thus having the visitors here need be given. Doubtless many of the men not already familiar with the town and the golf course will become enamored with the town and prospects of golfing here each year and make this place headquarters during their vacation seasons. Then there is always an advantage in having high-caliber business men come to the town for many of these ever have an eye to business when they are here visiting and on

Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM

A LITTLE brown pup, just a scraggly scout, was wending his weary way. He'd scamper here and then back he'd scout, for he longed for a bit of play.

At last there is a home with a warm bright light, says this pup as his tail wags fast. I'll park myself on that porch tonight, a real place to sleep at last.

The place he picked was a mansion great. Just the finest place to stay. But the dog was wrong for, at any rate, he was shortly chased away.

So, on he went, with his tail hung low, till he came to a lowly shack. An old lamp gave a dim glow with a welcome at its back.

The lowly pup dragged his shivering frame to this hut that was tumbling down. The sound of children's voices came and the pup was turned around.

A youngster's face at the window pressed, and a smile was spreading wide. And then, of course, as you might have guessed, the pup was let inside.

"How'd it?" she said sweetly.

"Come in," cried Mister Fuzz Wuzz to the twins. "Somebody arrived in town from London yesterday, and I'm going to see who it is. They say it's a lady."

So away went the three of them to the new arrival.

She was keeping house in an old, old box with a hinge lid that did not latch for a front door and when the visitors knocked she answered at once.

"How'd it?" she said sweetly.

"How do you do yourself?" said Mister Fuzz Wuzz hospitably. "Welcome to Doofum Land! I do hope you will like us."

"I'm sure I shall. It will be a nice change," remarked the new lady. "I've been sitting on a nuptial piece for nearly a year, and although the family lived with very very kind, I did get sick of always standing in one place and never being moved except to be dusted."

"Did you ever happen to know a man who—?" began Nancy, but Mister Fuzz Wuzz stopped her. "Sh! Wait a bit," he whispered.

"Would you mind telling us your story?" asked Mister Fuzz Wuzz politely.

"Oh, no," smiled the dancer. "Do sit down and I'll begin at once. I was a favor at a birthday party. It was a lovely party—all pink and white—even the white birthday cake was covered with pink candles, and I matched perfectly. I was set at a place as a favor, and right beside me was a nice little man who nodded and nodded at me in such a friendly fashion that I was quite fascinated."

At the same meeting the by-laws of the association were amended authorizing a delinquent member to be reinstated upon payment of one year's dues.

All members of the association are to be entitled to the service fee of charge upon presentation to the service company of a dues card showing the applicant to be in good standing.

Under provisions of the contract the companies are to make a weekly report to the association of all service given, together with the sum collected from members for equipment furnished.

For this service the companies receive jointly from the treasury of the Good Roads Association the sum of $1 a year from each member in good standing.

John A. The Kitchen Should Come First In House Planning

AT THIS STORE ONLY WILL YOU FIND THE HOOSIER

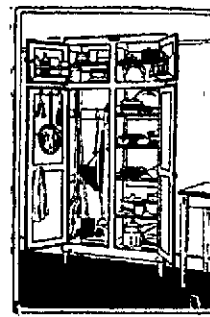

Our homes are like a theatre; in front the stage—the part that people see. But back behind the scenes someone must work to keep things going smoothly out in front. No spotlight here—and all to little credit and applause!

Back in the kitchen of every home is a woman who controls a large share of the family happiness and health—a job which demands real generalship, infinite resource and long, long hours of hard work. It is with an understanding appreciation of the woman in the kitchen and her job that we suggest a Hoosier.

HOOSIER'S NEWEST POPULAR CONVENIENCE

Single Shelf Unit

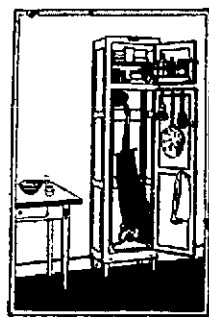

Single Unit

For use as an extra unit of cupboard space in larger kitchens or as a necessary unit in small kitchens or kitchenettes, this single unit offers a happy solution to the always vital need of storage capacity. Contains five adjustable shelves. Can be converted into a broom closet by removing shelves.

Double Shelf Unit

Double Unit

Generously supplied with adjustable shelves. It affords storage space for supplies, dishes and utensils, equal to that of the average pantry. It is much more convenient—accessible, roomy, and easy to keep fresh and clean. It will take you only a few moments to convert one side into a broom closet. Placed beside the sink this unit is ready to receive the dishes, thus reducing the amount of walking to a minimum.

Why a Hoosier Cabinet?

Your kitchen gains fresh attractiveness from the shining Hoosier Cabinet. And the room takes on new tidiness when all your little kitchen utilities are tucked away within its generous storage space. As for convenience, let us point out just a few exclusive HOOSIER features: a table top adjusted to your height; sliding shelves beneath the table; automatic cutlery drawer; revolving spice casket, and a shaker flour sifter that "fluffs" your flour as it comes out.

Add to these the advantage of having cooking ingredients and utensils all in one spot, and you will understand why we say you cannot afford to impose upon yourself the drudgery of the old-style kitchen.

Why Are Drugs Standardized?

They are standardized in order to bring about uniform therapeutic efficiency to the patient whenever required. This efficiency is most needed in the sick room—not merely in the laboratory.

What is true of drugs must be true of foods. Purity and efficiency in the can is only part of the problem—purity and efficiency in the kitchen is the true test.

The law requires that baking powder contain 12% leavening gas at the time of sale to the consumer. This measure insures uniform leavening efficiency and protects the health of the public.

In order to comply with this fixed standard for baking powder, manufacturers must produce and pack their product so as to avoid the deterioration which may result from absorption of atmospheric moisture.

Baking Powder manufacturers to avoid violation of the law, also spend thousands of dollars yearly in testing grocers' stocks and removing "spent" goods from their shelves, in spite of the fact that every possible precaution had previously been taken against deterioration.

With the exception of Texas, the pure food laws are not applied to baking powder mixed with flour at the mill and sold in bags as "Self Rising Flour." There is no penalty on the manufacturers if this fails to "self rise"—the consumer is the "goat"—he is the one that pays the penalty through indigestion and ill health that comes from eating bakings that are not properly raised. The standardization of baking powder is a protection to both the consumer and the manufacturer—who welcomes such laws and co-operates in every way possible. But!

Not so with the self rising flour manufacturer—he resents such laws and fights such legislation. Why? Because a standardization of self rising flour would require moisture proof containers instead of cheap sacks—because low grade "clears" could no longer be sold as "fancy patent flour." It would also mean he must maintain expert chemical control such as is now maintained by baking powder manufacturers.

Calumet Baking Powder contains only such ingredients as have been officially approved by the U. S. Food Authorities.

DOHENY TELLS HOW HE MET AL FALL AND HOW MADE FIRST STRIKE

This is the sixth chapter of E. L. Doheny's own story of his rise to fortune—"How I Made My Millions." In previous chapters Doheny tells how he left home and made his way to the southwest.

BY E. L. DOHENY

Came word of the discovery of gold in the Black Hills and I rushed—only to be disappointed again, for Black Hills was still part of Indian territory not open to prospecting.

I went on to Colorado, then to Pueblo. But without any luck. Part of the time I went with a party of prospectors, among whom were Ed Wright, Wild Mc and Tom Walsh, father in law of Ed and B. McLean, Editor of the Washington Post and Cincinnati Enquirer.

Pat I left them and went on alone to the head of Cave Creek where I found some gold which I mined in a primitive Mexican way—and made my first money from mineral.

That was in 1876. The next year I made a little more from an operation at Great Eagle Creek near Brush. But it wasn't a great deal. I didn't seem to have much luck with gold.

So I drifted on and discovered the district now known as Sierra Blanca. It was a wild place, where those who went in were up to the eyes in mud. But I came out with silver that I found at North Pecos and they of $3,500 for ten in the Silver Nugget mine.

In 1882 I helped find Kingston, which I discovered before. There I found a gold mine and then went back to prospecting.

My second big money came from selling two claims I held to Jeff Reynolds for $7,000. Next came the returns from selling miners' claims to a man from Monticello.

The returns put me on my feet and I wanted to make more. When I couldn't find them in one place, I went elsewhere. I got a worker in almost every mine, camp in the southwest.

I made a great deal of money. Charles A. Canfield with whom I later was to make my first oil strike. I met Al Fall and we became friends.

And we lived in fine—close friends—for the next 45 years. When we were in trouble we helped each other. It was the mark of friendship—a fact acknowledged by those who seek only to criticize and calumny.

In all these years I have never known Fall to do a dishonest act. Our relation—it all time—were on the highest plane—as must be where friendship is real.

But while I lived in my friend in the oil days I didn't make much money. Once I fell down a mine shaft and broke both legs. I was laid up for a long time. I began to study law by myself. I read law up to be a lawyer while I was at oil in Louisiana.

By the time that my bone were knit, I had mastered enough law to pass the examination for admittance to the bar. I practiced for a year or more but the urge to go prospecting again was too great. So I went back and kept at it—without much more luck than before.

Finally I decided to change the scene of operation and went to Los Angeles.

There my luck changed. One day in Los Angeles I saw a teamster drive by with a load of black substance that looked like silver ore. I got to get at Silver City, N. M. I jumped on the brake beam and examined the product more closely. I asked the driver what it was. He said "Breer."

"Breer" is a Spanish term for pitch—in exudation of oil. Reasoning from cause of effect—the whole secret of a "nose for oil"—I decided that there must be oil where this "breer" came from. For this substance is to oil in the ground what resin is to the sap of a tree.

I knew this from the experience I had gained from digging for other minerals, and from looks on oil that I had been reading recently. So I went out to Westlake Park, where the driver said he found the stuff, and looked around. It looked like oil, all right, but I had in that part of town was expensive. So I traced its stream and found a similar surface about a mile away.

Then I went to Charlie Canfield, with whom I had prospecting before, and asked him for his views. I was on the point of going to Phoenix to open a law office, and didn't want to lose any more time on idle prospecting. But the urge was too great. We decided to go to it again.

We bought the corner lot from a grocer, whom we paid on the installment plan, and set to work—digging for oil, just as we had dug for gold and silver.

Some oil, at 22 1/2 feet we struck a gusher.

Nearly every event which marked an epoch in my life occurred on Nov. 10th or 11th.

My son was born on Nov. 10th. I discovered Kingston, N. M., on Nov. 10th 1880.

And I made the discovery of my first oil on Nov. 10th, 1892. It was a well. In 18 months we made $1,115,000 in the Los Angeles field.

We went into other areas—Fullerton, Kern River Valley. Others went, too. The great oil scramble was on.

In 1896 I became involved in politics for the first and only time. It was the only time I was in any place at election time where I could qualify as a voter. I supported William Jennings Bryan and got into a controversy with my bankers, who cut off my credit. This tied up my property and we had to have a trustee appointed to manage them.

So at 10 years of age, I didn't have much ready money. But I felt young. I had knowledge of a new kind of mining—how to find oil. And I was happy.

(Doheny ventures to Mexico—he tells about it in his next article.)

BUTTERCUP ICE CREAM CO.CHANGES NAME TO HONEYCUP

Name of the Buttercup Ice Cream company has been changed to Honeycup Ice Cream company, according to announcement made at the office today. The change was necessitated on account of the name first selected being previously copyrighted by a firm in North Carolina.

Before the first name was adopted, members of the firm communicated with the department of copyrights at Washington but information that the name had already been used was not divulged.

It was necessary to amend the articles of incorporation and include in the new name of the firm.

In Presbytery At Chattanooga Dr. R. E. Douglas, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, and H. McCamy, elder in the church, left yesterday for Chattanooga to attend the annual meeting of presbytery.

HUNT'S WASHINGTON LETTER

BY HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, April 7—48

though party lead is weren't having enough to keep their lines straight for the coming campaign, state and county organizations are reporting that newly enfranchised women voters gunning up the organization program in many sections of the country.

Apparently the spring house-cleaning fever has hit a large section of the politically minded women. They're blaming the men for "smearing the place with oil, trucking in mud and dirt and being not merely untidy but positively filthy. Anyway, they're rolling up their sleeves, getting out the brooms and carpet beaters, and making a show of getting ready to clean up.

One of the first clean-up conferences called by women, who want to see the political house-stand maintained in better order, is that of the League of Women Voters, which will be held in Buffalo April 21 to 22.

Among the women who will wield the duster on that occasion are Julia Rathrop of Chicago, former chief of the U. S. Children's Bureau; Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of Pennsylvania's progressive Republican governor; Mrs. Frank Vanderlip, whose husband has organized the Federal Research Bureau in Washington to assist investigations into governmental rectitude; and Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt and Mrs. Mary Garrett Hay, veteran suffrage campaigners.

The conference will not choose as between Republicans and Democrats in deciding the course of the organization in the house-cleaning, but will concentrate its efforts to stimulate women's interest generally in picking "clean" men for office this fall, from county prosecutors to president.

A taste of what may be expected from this feminine house-cleaning fever has just been experienced by Cumberland county, N. J. An old-time political boss there, as a sop to suffrage sentiment, named a young Smith College graduate, Thelma Parkinson of Vineland, N. J., as a member of the state Democratic committee. He figured she'd be satisfied with the honor of the job; he'd get credit among the women for naming one of their sex, and everything would be lovely.

But, alas! Mrs. Parkinson took her job seriously. One confirmed as a member of the committee, she got busy. She didn't like the boss' manners nor his methods, and said so. She organized the committee against him and then kicked him out.

Miss Smith will be at the Democratic convention as delegate-at-large from New Jersey—doubtless the youngest delegates on the floor, if not the youngest. She's their intention of going to the conference.
